1. In early November 1951 the Canton River Defense Headquarters discharged CHIANG Kuo-hua (江國華), commander of the river defense headquarters at Shihoh'i, because of his smuggling activities. HSU Shu-hua (徐庶華), department head of the Canton River Defense Headquarters, was appointed to succeed CHIANG.
2. In late November 120 Soviet special engineers and technicians in Chanchiang (110-24, 21-11) were helping the Chinese Communists in port construction. The first step was to rebuild the old piers and then build five large new piers which can accommodate giant warships. Fifty warehouses will be constructed; five of them will provide ten storage areas for explosives and five underground storage areas for oil.
3. The Kwangtung Military District appropriated 20 tons of steel plate and steel rods and 1,000 packages of cement weighing 50 cattles each for the construction of the port at Chanchiang. On 27 and 29 November these items were transported from Canton to Chanchiang in 35 military trucks.
